It is true that the nobility of old ate with their fingers and in large halls filled with a mixed company, but there was an elegance of manners then as now, regulated quite as much by fashion and by established rules of polite breeding. Frequent washings before, after, and also during a meal preserved a scrupulous cleanliness, and if the fingers were sometimes stained a saffron hua, owing to the nature of the popular condiment, they were at least free from dirt, for the etiquette of the higher classes demanded the most delicate management in the handling of food and the greatest possible avoidance of soiling the fingers with it. Even the custom of washing was surrounded by that elegance which belonged to all their habits of life.

San Francisco, Cal. Incubators have received considerable attention within the last few years, and, though they have been in operation for over twenty years, it is only within the past few years that they have been so perfected as to be considered reliable. The puzzling problem with them has been to discover the exact temperature at which they should be maintained in order to secure a fair hatch. On this point there is still a diversity of opinion, but 103 degrees has been fixed upon as the proper average heat. Several experiments have been conducted during the last season with a view of deriving greater knowledge in regard to artificial hatching, and, like other matters that come up for consideration, opinions change as newer ideas are presented. Several months ago we gave in these columns complete directions for making and operating an incubator that had been thoroughly tested and proved satisfactory. Later trials have resulted still more favorably, demonstrating the fact that artificial incubation is a success and may be conducted with profit. The proper heat is claimed to be 103 degrees, but some of the most successful hatches resulted when the heat was rather high in the beginning, and lower near the close. Thus, instead of keeping the eggs at 103 permanently, they were kept at 105 the first week, 104 the second, and 103 the third, as the chicks seem to hatch better when coming out under a low temperature. This belief, however, may not be considered as an established fact, for good results have been obtained at different temperatures. The bedily heat of a hen is much greater in the beginning of her inclination to sit than when near the time of hatching, and the chicks themselves create a large proportion of heat. The greater the heat the larger the amount of moisture required being insufficient under a high temperature in an incubator does not necessarily prevent hatching. One advantage of artificially hatching the chicks the operature in an incubator does not necessarily prevent hatching. One advantage of artificial incubati A Healthy Stomach

Youthful Swindlers

WASHINGTON, August 22. Harry T. Cook, aged about 21 years, and Charles T. Cook, his brother some years younger, were arrested here this afternoon, the elder for forgery and the younger for collusion.

Their plan of operation was novel and ingenious, and but for an oversight which might have been avoided sight which might have been avoided they could have gone on indefinitely in their course. Harry was discount clerk in the Columbia National Bank, where he had access to all the signatures and accounts of the bank's patrons. It has been shown by investigation that he, some time ago, disguised himself, and, under an assumed name, opened an account in another bank. He then forged the name of one of the Columbia Bank's depositors te a series of checks, payable to himself under his assumed name, and got his younger brother to deposit to their account the checks after they had been returned to the Columbia bank for collection, and after they had been paid in and the books were secured by the forger and destroyed. The culprits are sons of the late Professor Cook, of this city.

They Heed Not the Isjunction.

CHICAGO, August 22. The Times special from Winnipeg says: A telegram from Premier Norquay congratulates the contractor and Government upon paying no heed to the injunction, and expects his colthe injunction, and expects his colleagues to go right ahead and defy the Canadian Pacific railroad and the Dominion Government in the construction of the road. He says he will return at once, as the object of his absence from Manitoba has now been served. At a meeting of the Cabinet Council held to-day it was decided to lay the rails and ties, despite the injunction, and if any forcible resistance is offered the Government will be backed by 5,000 citizens, or all that are wanted. Hundreds drove out to-day to view a piece of work across lots for which an injunction was issued.

The will is dated December 3, 1883, The will is dated December 3, 1883, and gives Maurice and Harry, the two sens, handsome amounts in personal property and a share of the realty; but a codicil dated June 26, 1887, directs that all bequests to Maurice be revoked, and that all such are bequesthed to his wife, and are free from all control of his creditors. She is requested to pay him from time to time such sums as are necessary to maintain him in the station to which he has been accustomed.

Hearst in Hontana.

BUTTE, Mont., August 22. United States Senator Hearst, of California, said to-day in an interview: "I don't think silver will go higher than it is at present. Indeed we will all be satisfied if it remains we will all be satisfied if it remains where it is. The trouble is over-production and the want of legislation fixing a standard. Copper is as low as it will get." In any answer to questions about the talked-of contest of his election, the Senator from California said he did not fear the result of a contest, as he is confident his election was atrightforward and honest. He does not consider any contest likely to be made.

The company play here on Wednesday night. requested permission to visit St. Petersburg in order to learn the Czar's wishes before going to Bulgaria. The Czar replied that the Prince's election would not be recognized by Russia and that the Prince could by no pretext justify his journey to Bulgaria. The Moscow Gazette says: The Russian circular to the Powers regarding Prince Ferdinand has given great satisfaction throughout Russia. It believes Prince Ferdinand's retirement now to be inevitable, and says if he does not leave Bulgaria Russia will renounce her obligations under the Berlin treaty, which she has always regarded as a bitter deception after a glorious war.

Eastern States. He says that through western Illinois, Iowa and Kansas farmers are suffering immense losses from drouth. At Carthage, Illinois, and other places in that section, cows which one year ago would have sold for from $30 to $30 now sell for $10 per head. While he was there a whole band of beef cattle sold for $2 50 per hundred weight. Farmers are cutting their corn and oats to feed the starving cattle. In some places the corn crop is entirely destroyed and the wheat and oats crops will not be more than one-half of the yield of former years.

What the Early Birds Saw The special car containing the Augustin Daly Theater Company attracted considerable attention at the depot this morning from the fact that it was sandwiched in among a string of emigrant cars. A notable passenger on the car was a Chinese boy (whom Mr. Daly "bought" in Ban Francisco from his guardians to be used by that gentleman as a servant in New York), who gazed wonderingly out of the car window at the surroundings. Some of the habitues of the depot, while talking to the little heathen, were treated to the spectacle of one of the lady members of the troupe, utterly oblivious of all external things, making her toilet. She had evidently justarisen, and as our reporter reached the scene, she was in the act of penciling her eyebrows, which finished to her satisfaction, she removed several pounds of leaden strips from her hair, aristically applied the powder "pad" to her cheeks and neck, which a disheveled night robe exposed to the vulgar view. The next act was the removal of said robe, and the contrast between the decorated head and face and the unadorned shoulders, etc., of the vounce lady was so great that the Chinese boy (whom Mr. Daly adorned shoulders, etc., of the young lady was so great that the modest reporter was obliged to fly to hide his blushes.

At about 7 o'clock this morning a brief but exciting passage-at-arms took place en Virginia street between L. S. Hawk, the plasterer, and Jim Burke, the brickmason, which afforded con-siderable sport for the spectators. During the struggle Hawk man-aged to down his oppouent twice, and is alleged to have bitten Burke and is alleged to have bitten Burke twice—once on the right cheek and once on the hand—besides planting a "corker" on the brickmason's left optic, which will probably cause it to assume the hue of mourning for a few days. Differences regarding business matters are said to have led to the trouble.

Dr. J. W. Harlan, of San Franisco, whose mission it is to spread the doctrines of the so-called Land and Labor party troughout Nevada, has been holding forth in Reno during the past few days. Dr. Har-lan says he is authorized to organ-ize clubs in the different towns of Nevada, and thinks he will so plast the germs of his party's principles, that by the next election it will be a power in the land. The doctor is an eloquent and earnest speaker, and holds the attention of his audience throughout. He will accept dience throughout. He will speak this evening at half-past seven o'clock at the corner of Commercial Row and Virginia street.

It seems that they were exchanging Bible stories with members of the Daly troupe (en route East) and supposed they had as much time as the latter, but they reckoned wrongly, for while all hands were laughing heartily at some new "gag" the V. & T. train pulled out leaving the funny fellows behind. UNIVERSITY.

The Truckee Valley Compared to that of the Valley of Mexico.

President Brown is actively engaged in the work preparatory to the opening of the fall term of the State University, September 5th. He is favorably impressed with the site of the building and with Reno. He considers the University building admirably adapted to college work and takes a very hopeful view of the future of the State of Nevada and the entire Pacific Coast. He believes, so he said to a GAZETTE reporter yesterday, that Reno is one of the best locations in the United States for a University and says that he has never seen a more charming picture of landscape than that which is to be obtained from the tower of the University. He has seen nothing anywhere that equals that view except the valley of Mexico as viewed from one of the towers of the Mexican Cathedral. This view alone he thinks will do much for the University in the future. He expects to visit California within a few days, after which he will be able to announce the names of the corps of Professors for the ensuing year. Meantime he Nevada and the entire Pacific day, but by night noisy demonstrations which annoy the entire

DBUGGIST AND ASSATER,
RENO, NEV., June 28, 1887. RENO, NEV., June 78, 1887.)

T. K. HYMERS, ESQ., CHAIRMAN BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS—DEAR SIR:

In accordance with your request I have made examinations of three samples of water furnished by you, with special reference to such impurities as would render it unfit for domestic use, and beg leave to present the following report:

Sample No. I was taken from the river about ten miles above town, at the point where the Highland ditch takes it supply; sample No. I was taken from the main reservoir, four feet from the surface, near where the water used in the town is taken; sample No. 3 was taken from the Highland ditch just before it empties into the main reservoir. The following is a tabulated statement of the results of the tests made:

(In parts per million.)

SAMPLES.		No. 1 No. 2 No. 1
Free ammonia		.0476 .0833	.1562 .2694	.047
(În grain	per g	allon.	.)
SAMPLES.	No. 1	No	2 1	Vo. 3
Total solids Organic solids Mineral matter Chlorine		5.85	216	2160

The ammonia found indicates the proportion of contamination from animal sources, such as sewage, decomposing animal matter, etc., and in Nos. 1 and 3 is in as small proportion as can be expected in a stream which flows through as many towns as the Truckee; while in No. 2 it is in three times the quantity as in the others, and above the limit of safety—dxed by most authorities at .08 to .19 parts free ammonia, and .18 to .30 parts albumenoid ammonia per million of water.

Union.

Impurities resulting from sawdust in the river would be shown in the table under the head of "organic solids," but the results obtained show that the amount of such matter is very small; much less, indeed, than is contained in many natural springs, some of which carry five grains or more of organic matter to the radion just where they subshie for a few days, the water it had been empty for a few days, the water naturally being turbid from fine particles of silt taken up from the bed of the ditch. The samples all show an alkaline re-action, but so slight as to be immaterial: being less than one-tenth of the limit of afety, placed at "an alkalinity greater.

by weight, of caustic soda to one thousand parts of distilled water."

These various results show:
First—That the water supplied to the town through the main reservoir is not sufficiently pure to be used for domestic purposes with safety.

Secondly—That the water in the river is reasonably pure and wholesome, and Thirdly—That the water supplied to the town receives the greater part of its impurities in the main reservoir and its approaches.

As applicable to the sawdust question, I quote the following extract from an article on water by Professor S. P. Sadiler, Ph. D., Professor of Chemistry in the University of Pennsylvania, etc., etc.: "Organic matter may be derived from a vegetable source, such as leaf mould, and the decomposition products of wood, in which case it is practically harmless, or it may be derived from a mimal sources, in which case it almost always causes a serious impurity."

The demand for good dress-makers is so great, and the supply so inadequate, that the wonder is that all women who are obliged to be self-supporting do not take up the business. The capital necessary—in addition to a natural adaptability for the work, without which success is not obtained in any business—is very small, viz., a good sewing-machine and a small amount of money to be used in advertising. There are dress-makers and dress-makers and dress-makers and dress-makers, good, bad, and indifferent, but a good dress-maker need never want for customers. If she but make a gown to fit and please one customer, others will soon come to her.

Of course, there is labor and responsi-bility connected with the business, but no one ever succeeds in anything without no one ever succeeds in anything without these.

In this, as in every other profession or business, there is a field for individual labor. The woman who can design her own dresses and adapt them to the style, age and condition of her customers, holds rank among the artists of the day. There are conventional dress-makers—those who make their dresses after the Fernal. are conventional dress-makers—those who make their dresses after the French fashion-plates, utterly regardless of the characteristics of their customers—and there are women, too, who can with impunity wear these conventional clothes; while the great majority of wearers of gowns have a great and intense longing for garments entirely their own, not patterned exactly after those worn by their neighbors.

for garments entirely their own, not patterned exactly after those worn by their neighbors.

Dress-makers with ideas and sense, and judgment enough to carry them out, are what we need. By merest chance we now and then fall upon an artistic dress-maker who believes that the rules which govern art in other things should govern it in regard to covering and adorning the human body. Such a dress-maker enhances the beauty of the figure and diminishes the defects, not by padding, which is insufferable, but by judicious selections of styles and artistic arrangements of folds and fullness.

The customer who has a fine figure, she dresses in a severely plain style, while the one who has nothing but a bundle of bones upon which to hang her gown, she arrays in full waists and multitudinous folds, which not only cover her deficiencies, but give her a really artistic and picturesque effect.

She never inaists upon having a customer wear a certain style simply because it is new; she knows neither old nor new; she only knows what is becoming. She has the soul of an artist, the eye of a mechanic, and fingers of an expert. Would there were a race of her, and we could all employ her.

Religion vs. Finance.

A member of a church congregation in Wisconsin was last fall charged with gambling in stocks, and brought up before a committee for investigation. The trial began by a deacon asking:

"Brother Smith, the charge is gambling in stocks."

"Yes, sir."

"And you plead not guilty?"

"No, sir, I plead guilty."

"Then you do buy and sell stocks, speculate in wheat and oats, and sell futures in pork?"

"I do, sir. Didn't I give $1,000 in cash to help build this church?"

Then he took out of his pocket a large diagram apparently covered with unintelligible signs and algebraic formula, and fastened it with a pin upon the wall where he could easily observe it. When his dinner came he looked it over attentively, and then turned to a profound contemplation of his figures. After a while he began to eat, but with a great deal of caution and reserve, as if he were afreil of making a mistake, or suspected the biscuit of concealing a snag. Frequently he paused between the hites and his lips moved as if in prayer. The latter illusion was dispelled, however, by the occasional indistinct pronunciation of the name of a numeral. He was evidently counting. He chewed with his eyes fixed upon the equations of the diagram. There was a pale, bluish tinge about his face, and he looked bilious. His neighbor at the table hitched his chair a little further away and placed his hat where he could seize it at a moment's notice. He suspected the new-comer of being a lunatic. Suddenly the stranger caught his eye, started and inadvartently swallowed his food. He seemed to be very much put out by the occurrence.

"Why do you look at me that way?" he demanded. "Do you think I am peculiar?"
